NIKKO AM NZ CORPORATE BOND STRATEGY

Assets are held in the Nikko AM Wholesale NZ Corporate Bond Fund. The Nikko AM NZ Corporate Bond Fund (retail) and Nikko AM KiwiSaver NZ Corporate Bond Fund invest in units in the wholesale fund, which the commentary refers to.

Market Overview

- The global spread of the COVID-19 has resulted in a series of extraordinary events.
- There have been large price movements in financial markets which have been dysfunctional at times as liquidity has been severely reduced and volatility spiked.
- Central banks and Governments have taken unprecedented actions to try and reduce the negative economic impacts of lock-downs which have been implemented to reduce the spread of the virus and save lives.

Fund Highlights

- The fund returns were negative for the month, but remained positive over the quarter as quality bonds fulfilled their role as a safe haven compared to other financial assets.
- Credit margins have widened significantly, but the credit quality of the funds remains strong.

Market Commentary

Over the quarter volatility in financial markets was at times extreme, exacerbated by a lack of liquidity and falling investor confidence. Even in the NZ bond market sellers requiring liquidity far outweighed buyers, fortunately we have not had to sell assets from the bond funds at distressed levels. With wide pricing we have introduced buy/sell spreads on some funds to ensure equitable treatment across investors.

In explanation of performance outcomes both in absolute terms and relative to benchmark it is important to note there was a large difference in performance across the different sectors of the NZ bond market through March and at month end. NZ swap rates performed strongly as their yields fell, the 1-year swap fell by 38 basis points and the 10-year finished 28 bps lower as swap levels were not impacted by the widening in credit margins. In comparison all other sectors of the NZ bond market underperformed.

The main reason for underperformance was that credit margins expanded significantly. With a lack of liquidity and dysfunctional markets credit performed poorly, for example 5-year senior bank debt in NZ was previously marked at a credit margin of around 85 bps and closed the month much higher at margins of 160-170bps. We don't have any solvency concerns around the fund's holdings, however even high grade issuers close to government such as LGFA and housing NZ were marked much higher in margin over the month resulting in mark-to-market losses. Unusual in a "risk-off" environment, NZ government bonds underperformed significantly in comparison to swap. Longer government bonds had large swings in yield as the market became concerned about the large increase in debt issuance required to fund the government's support package. The sell-off higher in yield began to reverse with the NZ Reserve Bank announcing Quantitative easing (QE) and buying of NZ government bonds. The 2021 NZ government bond finished the month 55 bps lower in yield as the RBNZ slashed the Cash Rate to 0.25% and the front end of the yield curve moved much lower, the 2029 maturity was little changed. The 2037 long maturity bond finished the month 25 bps higher in yield after trading in a very wide 1.5% range over the month.

From a yield curve perspective shorter bonds performed better than longer maturities as yield curves steepened.

Fund Commentary

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the quarter. The expansion of credit margins, longer duration positioning and yield curve positioning were all contributors to underperformance. Credit in general underperformed similar maturities of governments and swap as margins widened significantly. We will continue to focus on maintaining a higher portfolio yield through buying quality non-government bond issues. The credit quality of the fund remains strong. Over the medium term it is likely returns will be supported by a higher yield, and some improvement in credit margins.
