NIKKO AM GLOBAL SHARES UNHEDGED STRATEGY

Assets are held in the Nikko AM NZ Wholesale Global Shares Fund. The Nikko AM Global Shares Fund (retail) and Nikko AM KiwiSaver Scheme Global Shares Fund invest in units in the wholesale fund, which the commentary refers to.

Market Overview

- The MSCI All Countries World Index gained 7.64% (NZD, unhedged) which was its best quarterly result since the second quarter of 2020 (when it soared 9.79%).
- US Federal Reserve commentary indicated inflation could be stronger than expected, a bounce in the US dollar and the realization that the 'Delta' variant is leading to an acceleration in COVID-19 cases across the world, helped accelerate the profit taking in the cyclical cohort.
- Financials suffered over the quarter, as lower yields implied future falling returns across the banking community. The utilities sector was however by far the worst performing sector with a return of -0.2% over Q2.

Fund Highlights

- The fund returned 6.62% for the quarter, 1.02% behind the benchmark of 7.64%.
- Holdings with a notable impact on returns over the quarter included HelloFresh, Adobe and Transunion.
- Detractors over the quarter were Sony, HDFC Bank and Phillips.

Market Commentary

For the fifth straight month, global equity markets posted a positive return (in NZD terms). For the quarter the MSCI All Countries World Index gained 7.64% (NZD, unhedged). Investors don't have to look too far beneath the surface to see that there has been significant rotation between sectors and styles over the last few months, and indeed more aggressively in the last month. Despite high valuations and a flattening of the yield curve, growth stocks outperformed in June. The rotation into growth was at the expense of cyclical areas of the market, perhaps suggesting that the easy money from the re-rating in cyclicals is now behind us. US Federal Reserve commentary indicating inflation could be stronger than expected, a bounce in the US dollar and the realization that the 'Delta' variant is leading to an acceleration in COVID-19 cases across the world, helped accelerate the profit taking in the cyclical cohort. On the flip side, financials suffered over the quarter, as lower yields implied future falling returns across the banking community. The utilities sector was however by far the worst performing sector with a return of -0.2% over Q2. Negative real rates and incredibly low absolute rates allowed investors to ignore, in the short term at least, the importance of valuation support. In the longer term, it seems unlikely that the "growth at any cost" playbook, so successful for the last decade, is the best approach for the next.

Fund Commentary

The fund returned 6.62% for the quarter, 1.02% behind the benchmark of 7.64%. Holdings with a notable impact on returns included: HelloFresh, Adobe and TransUnion. The market is starting to recognise that HelloFresh is not just a one-time beneficiary of the pandemic, but instead has several levers at hand to drive sustainable growth longer-term Adobe showed strong revenue growth also dropping through to ongoing profit margin expansion, this generated good earnings upgrades. TransUnion outperformed on the back of a significant recovery in US non-mortgage verticals, as leaders increased customer acquisition efforts and fiscal stimulus boosted large consumer purchase activity. Detractors over the quarter were Sony, who underperformed after recent quarterly results signalled a muted profit growth outlook. HDFC Bank was negatively impacted by the significant surge in COVID-19 rates in India over the quarter and, Philips underperformed after announcing an increase to the expected cost of a voluntary product recall in its sleep care business.
