Fund commentary

The Fund outperformed the benchmark by 42 bps (gross) in April, delivering a return of 3.83% (NZD, unhedged, gross) as both Growth and Quality continued to outperform Value by a significant margin. As expected, WCM (134 bps), PGI (93 bps) and Davis (84 bps) outperformed, while the Value manager Epoch (-120 bps) underperformed.

WCM had a very strong month, with value added mostly by holdings from the Technology, Consumer and Healthcare sectors. Top of the list was Edwards Lifesciences (up 19%), Cerner (up 12%) and Mercadolibre (up 11%). Although there was no stock specific news, Tencent Holdings (up 11.5%) benefitted from the continued outperformance of growth stocks in April. The Technology sector has been a particularly strong performer year-to-date, with a return of 18.0% for the first four months of the year, compared to the benchmark return of 10.3%.

PGI's Global Growth strategy has significant overweights to Apple, Amazon, Facebook and Google. With the exception of Apple, the other three performed well in April and made a positive impact on performance. Value was also added by French luxury goods names, Louis Vuitton Moët Hennessy (up 16%) and Christian Dior (up 21%).

The Davis portfolio also gained from stock selection in the Growth sectors. Alphabet (up 11%) added the most value, followed by emerging market consumer holdings, Naspers (up 12%), JD.com (up 15%) and TAL Education (up 14%).

Epoch's underperformance was due to a large overweight to the Telecoms sector, which underperformed, as well as stock selection in the Healthcare and Information Technology sectors. In addition to Telecoms being one of the worst performing sectors in April, three of Epoch's holdings in the sector had poor returns. Telstra (down 9.6%) was the main detractor from performance, followed by Verizon Communications (down 3%) and AT&T (down 1.7%). Qualcomm (down 4.6%) was the worst performing Technology holding, while the return from the Healthcare sector was negatively impacted by pharma companies, Astrazeneca (down 1.1%) and GlaxoSmithKline plc (down 1.6%).
